

CONFERENCE WILL TAKE UP TARIFF MEASURE TODAY

Tariff Features Are Kept In Tact In Emergency Protection and Anti-Dumping Measures

Washington, May 13. — Senate and House conferees will begin their efforts to reach an agreement on the emergency tariff and anti-dumping bill probably today.

The measure was passed by the Senate late Wednesday. Although all amendments offered from this floor were promptly defeated in the Senate, the bill differs radically from that passed by the House, the anti-dumping and currency revaluation sections having been rewritten and provision made for continuing wartime restrictions on imports of dyestuffs by the Senate finance committee. The tariff features, however, were kept intact.

The vote on passage Wednesday was 63 to 28, seven Democrats joining with the Republicans on the final rollcall and but one Republican, Moses, of New Hampshire, voting against it. The bill will be effective for six months, by which time leaders hope to see the permanent tariff bill, now being framed by the House Ways and Means committee, enacted into law.

Seyen Democrats, Senators Broussard, Louisiana; Jones, New Mexico; Kendrick, Wyoming; Myers, Montana; Pittman, Nevada; Ramsdell, Louisiana; and Sheppard, Texas, voted with the Republicans in passing the bill. Another Democrat, Ashurst, Arizona, who was absent, was announced as a supporter. Only one Republican, Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, voted against the bill.

As passed by the Senate, the bill is to be effective for six months, by which time it is hoped the permanent tariff law, now being framed, will have been enacted into law. It provides rates of duty on wheat, corn, beans, peanuts, potatoes, rice, cattle, sheep, meats, long staple cotton and cotton manufactures, wool and wool manufactures, sugar, milk, wrapper and filler tobacco, and other farm products.

The bill also carried an anti-dumping section designed to check the influx of cheaply manufactured foreign goods. The present wartime control of importations of dyestuffs is continued.

URGED TO KEEP UP SUNDAY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

People of Maysville and Mason County Are Urged to Attend Some Sunday School on Next Sunday.

Will the Sunday schools keep up their good attendance and interest Sunday? For several weeks extra pressure has been made to increase attendance. That the efforts have succeeded the figures show plainly. Many have been added to the rolls of the schools, some of whom have not attended Sunday school for years. The increase in the adult departments of the schools has been great—more so than among the children. This is a good sign.

With the parents attending the little ones will be sure to come. New additions will find the schools as interesting and helpful, if not more so, now that the excitement of the big days have passed. The series of lessons now being studied are the most practical that have been issued in the uniform course of lessons. They take up everyday problems of life and show just how the religion of our Bible can help solve them. It would be a fine thing to see everyone who attended "Go-To-Sunday-School-Day" go again Sunday. And they could without any more effort than they put into it that day.

After all it is just a question as to whether they want to or not. For the average person can just about find time to do the things they are really interested in. The Sunday schools of our city and county appeal to you in the interest of the Kingdom to become permanent members of some Sunday school and do it tomorrow.

If you have a daughter on your hands that you want to marry off, come to the Opera House tonight and see how it is done.

Young Ladies To Assist Mason County Committee in Winding-up County's Contribution to Help Purchase "Federal Hill."

Colonel J. Barbour Russell, chairman of the Mason county committee to raise funds for the purchase of "Federal Hill," the birthplace of "My Old Kentucky Home" as a state shrine, announces that his committee is now within two hundred dollars of the county's apportionment.

In order to raise this sum within a short time and close the campaign so far as Mason county is concerned, Colonel Russell has made Saturday a tag day and has asked the Settlement Club to assist him in making the day a success.

The Kentucky Cardinal band will be out on the street to furnish music during Saturday afternoon and young ladies will be stationed at the banks and centrally located places of business to tag every one. Those tagged are expected to make a small contribution to the fund. It is hoped that the deficiency will be made up Saturday.

The committees of young ladies who will do the tagging follow:

This picture is one of the most wonderful ever seen in Maysville and the large audiences were awed throughout. Some of the most wonderful acting ever seen on a screen has been seen in this picture. Those who saw it were so favorably impressed that Manager Russell is making arrangements to return the film at an early date that those who were unable to see it Thursday may have that opportunity.

KILLED BY STROKE OF LIGHTNING WHILE WORKING IN FIELD

Fourteen Year Old Boy and Horse He Was Riding Killed Instantly by Stroke of Lightning While at Work on Farm Near Dexter.

Arthur Shields, 14 years of age, was killed instantly and the horse he was riding was also killed when struck by lightning at about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the farm of Mr. John Clinger in the Dexter neighborhood.

Young Shields, who is an orphan, had been working for Walter Clinger, who is farming on his father's place. Both Shields and Walter Clinger were hawking ground when the young man was struck. Both of the horses in Shields' team were knocked down but one of the horses recovered, being only stunned. Young Shields and the horse he was riding were both killed instantly. The lightning burned the young man's hair and left its mark across his forehead.

Coroner Thomas Higgins was called about supper time to make his examination and discovered no other marks of the lightning in the field or near it. Young Shields was a fine young man bearing a splendid reputation in his neighborhood. His parents died some time ago and he went to make his home with the younger Mr. Clinger. Funeral arrangements have not as yet been made.

Well Known Local Man Announces Himself as a Candidate for City Clerk in November Election.

Mr. Fred A. Diener today authorizes the Public Ledger to announce his candidacy for City Clerk in the approaching November election.

Mr. Diener is too well known in Maysville to need any comment from us at this time. He is a splendid young man well liked by all who know him, and there are very few people in Maysville who do not know "Freddie" Diener. Mr. Diener is at present engaged in the insurance business in Maysville.

During the World War Mr. Diener lost a leg in one of the severest of the battles and for several months was confined to Walter Reed hospital. While thus confined, he took a special course in business bookkeeping and is thoroughly qualified for the office to which he aspires.

MAYSVILLE GIRL'S PLAY PLEAS AT CLUB MEETING

Presentation of Historical Play by Mrs. Lafferty and Miss Frances Marsh Is Feature of State Federation Meeting.

Danville, Ky., May 13. — With the installation of officers at a dinner at Shakerstown inn last night, the annual convention of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs which has been in session here for the last four days, came to an end. Mrs. H. G. Reynolds, of Paducah, was installed as president.

The closing session was marked by a memorial to Mrs. Madeline McDowell Breckinridge, of Lexington, noted leader in women's work, who died Thanksgiving Day last November. Mrs. A. M. Harrison, Lexington, lauded Mrs. Breckinridge's activities and expressed the sorrow of her co-workers at her loss. Mrs. Harrison declared that her activities were too great to cover in a brief address and so she confined her talk to the work of Mrs. Breckinridge in behalf of laws for the good of humanity.

The presentation last night of the "Danville Political Club" play, by Mrs. W. T. Lafferty, Lexington, and Miss Frances Marsh, Maysville, a student of Journalism in the University of Kentucky, was the outstanding feature of the entire convention.

The participants in the play were Danville people, who are descended from original actors who in 1787 played an important part in the separation from Virginia in bringing about Kentucky statehood.

The federation was so impressed with the historical value of the play that it voted that Mrs. Lafferty put in suitable form the substance of the play and through the clubs of the state present it to the history classes in the state's schools.

Len Lanlus, of Cincinnati, former light-weight champion wrestler of the United States, is in Maysville on business. Mr. Lanlus is president of the Central Optical Co., of Cincinnati, and a great poultry fancier.

COMING VISITORS.

From Paris comes word that Marshal Foch may—indeed, probably will—visit America during the coming summer. He says he has been looking forward for some time to this pleasure and now is unable to resist the hearty invitation of the members of the American Legion to attend their annual convention and renew cordial relations with his former companions-in-arms. This news is giving much satisfaction to the sturdy young Americans who rallied to the defense of their country and in the process were privileged to help defend France from her powerful enemies, too.

A great soldier is not always a popular one with his associates and subordinates. Many allowances can be made for gruffness and the absence of friendly human qualities if a commander be a really strong man of fully dependable caliber. But Marshal Foch commands not merely admiration but affection for his unflinching sympathy and companionship. The tributes that will be paid to him during his forthcoming visit will be as a man, a friend of American soldiers, as well as a great general and a leading factor in the winning of the war for civilization.

An American woman recently returned from England brings tidings of another possible visitor who will be warmly welcomed here, David Lloyd George. But for the great war he would have come to America long ago. America has entertained many famous visitors during the past year, but almost without exception they have been public performers for pay. Most of them gave us the worth of our money, but they did not come here for the sole purpose of getting acquainted. Marshal Foch and Lloyd George will be on a somewhat different footing. They come as friends, without mercenary motive, and they will be received accordingly.

SKYSCRAPERS IN JAPAN.

The architect who designed the first American skyscraper is said to have been inspired to build the high edifice by seeing the pagodas of China. It is a story that one would like to believe; for we are glad to credit the Chinese with contributions of every sort to the progress of civilization. The legend comes to mind with added interest on reading that the Japanese, determined to make Tokio the New York City of the Orient, are arranging to put up a number of skyscrapers. If these tall buildings are really the outgrowth of a form of Chinese architecture, we are confronted with the spectacle of a dominant people making use of the idea of a weak race of similar blood to better advantage than the latter itself.

The news concerning Japanese skyscrapers, of which three, representing an outlay of more than $50,000,000, are already in course of erection in Tokio, is a good illustration of the readiness with which the Japanese adopt foreign ideas. The Chinese are more conservative, less ready to copy the civilization of the Occident. This doubtless accounts in part for the greater progress that the people of Nippon have made.

The Louisiana geese trained to catch fish and carry them to their owner also carry a measuring rule along so as not to bring in any under size. This feature was omitted from the news story as published.

NONUNION HONEYMOONING.

Has Samuel Gompers had a nonunion honeymoon? The Detroit Federation of Labor suspects as much. Its members have looked for the union label and have failed to find it. They charge that the president of the American Federation of Labor spent the first two days of his honeymoon at an open shop hotel. While there, they say, he and his bride were served with food by nonunion waiters. More, the very food itself was prepared by nonunion cooks.

The Detroiters refuse to be placated by the consoling thought that a bridegroom is oblivious to all but his bride; that each honeymoon means a world recreated for two alone, and that the only kind of a union that really counts with young love is the parson's kind. No. They are inclined to believe all that is mushy sentiment. They think Mr. Gompers should have torn himself from the side of his bride at least long enough to look up a closed shop hotel; that conjugal affection is all very well, but a union button on a waiter or cook is much better.

Diplomatic posts are now being demanded by women and it would be a very diplomatic thing to refuse their requests.

CAN WE CHARTER

OUR RIDLE SHIPS!

Washington, D. C.—Reports from Australia state that feeling among the meat producers there is very sore against the shipping companies—British companies—on account of the high rates which are being charged on Australian meat exports, and at a recent conference a proposal was put forward that efforts should be made to ascertain what American tonnage that could be insulated was available. The impression was that there was much idle tonnage in America that could be adapted for this trade, and that it could be purchased by a company of producers in which company the Government could take an interest, and thereby the highland actions of the British shipping companies could be curbed.

In this connection there has been some talk of a shortage of tonnage to handle freights marked for shipment out of the ports of certain South American countries, and it is well known that many of those countries have neither the facilities nor the workmen to build modern freight carriers. A suggestion has also been made that possibly some of the idle tonnage of America might be secured to fill the void in these countries.

Whether or not there is merit in these propositions might be determined by a survey of some sort to learn in what parts of the world tonnage is in high demand. The question arises as to whether or not it might be the part of economy to take advantage of such tonnage shortages, where possible. There are at present a large number of American ships, under the jurisdiction of the Shipping Board, which are swinging idly with the tide, or snubbed to the docks for lack of business. It is said that the James River, Virginia, is packed near its mouth with an idle fleet of freight carriers, the cost of upkeep and guarding of which is very large. In addition an idle vessel rapidly deteriorates. There does not seem to be any likelihood of pressing these vessels into service in the very near future.

It is thought by some that it might be the part of wise economy for the Federal Government to permit other countries to operate these ships, if they need them. They need not be sold outright, necessarily, but they might be opened to charter, the chartering parties to assume the cost of insurance, etc. These charter rates would aggregate a considerable income for the Government, and that would be much better than paying out large sums to look after vessels which are rapidly qualifying for the junk pile.

Some time ago Winthrop Marvin, president of the American Steamship Owners' Association, called attention to the fact that one of the reasons demanding a reduction in seamen's wages was the refusal of British cotton spinners and manufacturers to accept cargoes of raw cotton from the United States unless they came over in British bottoms covered by British insurance. It would certainly be retributive justice if the British shipping combine which is profiteering on Australian export trade was smashed with chartered American ships. It would seem as if the subject were worthy of investigation.

The secretary of the Building Employers' Association of Boston estimates that the efficiency of labor on building projects in that city has increased fully thirty per cent. since the recent strike. There has been less interference by agents of organized labor, unskilled men are assigned to jobs which, before the strike, had to be given to skilled workmen at high wages, and there is a disposition among all the men to help with other work when there is a lag in their own duties. It is declared that the improvement is a direct result of the establishment of the open shop among the building trades of Boston.

BLIND LAD MAKES AND TRAY FOR PRESIDENT

Boy Who Had Never Seen An Elephant Makes One Which President Uses For an Ash Tray.

New York, N. Y.—If you had never seen an elephant, could you make one? Not only that, but could you make one that President Harding would be glad to use as an ash-tray on his desk at the White House?

Rocco di Muccio, a blind New York boy, has done this. When President Harding recently visited New York, and was received at the New York Lighthouse for the Blind, to inaugurate the $2,000,000 campaign now being carried on by the Committee for Lighthouses for the Blind, he was presented with Rocco's plaster elephant, and made his speech accepting the honorary chairmanship of the campaign with Rocco's elephant clasped tightly

The presentation of the elephant was made by a blind boy, Rocco, a member of the only troop of its kind in this country. For Rocco, the lightless sculptor of the little white elephant it dead.

For many weary, eager hours, Rocco had worked over the modeling of his elephant under the instruction of a teacher in the summer school for the blind at the Lighthouse. Neve in his most fantastic dreams, had the boy sculptor imagined that his handiwork would some day take its place on the desk of the President of the United States. Although he did not live to see it, this is what actually happened. Rocco died last July at the age of twenty-two.

Following the lead of President Harding, who has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the Committee for Lighthouse for the Blind for their campaign for funds to extend their work of industrial education of the blind in this country and in France and Italy, Andrew H. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, has consented to serve as honorary treasurer of the campaign. Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes, Ex-President William Howard Taft, Elihu Root, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. James Roosevelt, Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Mrs. Finley J. Shepherd, and Surgeon General Ireland are among the eminent men and women who are interested in this work for the blind.

Funds subscribed in the $2,000,000 campaign are now being received by Lewis L. Clarke acting treasurer at the New York Lighthouse for the Blind, 11 East 49 street.

Something You Should Think About

When you buy a house or build a new one, probably the very first thing you do, after you pay for it, is to insure it against loss by fire. Isn't it? And yet you will keep bonds, notes, insurance policies, jewelry and other valuables constantly exposed to loss from both fire and thieves. For almost nothing—less than a cent a day—you can rent absolute security for your small articles of great value in our safe deposit vault. Can you afford to take the risk of losing them for such a small amount? We have provided, for your use, the most modern fire and burglar proof vault in this section of the country. New York Letter

Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — For the first time since New York can remember the details of its life, the belongings of one of its socially and financially prominent families are to be sold to the tune of "Gone! Gone! Gone!" None less than the William K. Vanderbilt furniture, it is, which is to go under the hammer. The mansion on Fifth avenue, which Mrs. William K. is about to abandon for her new home in the renovated square on the East River, holds furnishings so massive that it has been deemed impracticable to take them to the new home, and so one entire floor full of things is to be disposed of at one fell swoop. They belong to that part of the home which is a perfect reproduction of the wing of a famous French chateau, and the furnishings are of tremendous value.

Henry Jason is a conservative, law-abiding, prudent, commuter who crosses from the Jersey side six days a week to his broking job in the Wall street district. So conservative is Mr. Jason that he carries his lunch each day because he "likes to know what he is eating," and prefers the cooking of his own. His catastrophe came on one of the early days of the new state prohibition enforcement law. Just as he reached the sidewalk from the subway at his regular hour of 5:55 a. m., a policeman spied the bulge of the bottle on his hip in which Mr. Jason carries his luncheon refreshment. He stepped with speed and tapped that bulging spot none too gently with his stick. Breaking glass — and the outpouring of Mr. Jason's pint of certified milk! "It wasn't that I minded the loss of the milk to any degree," said the law-respecting Mr. Jason afterwards, "but I had to go way back to New Jersey to change my suit. It was quite ruined."

Statistics have a fatal fascination for some people; especially statistics of foolish things in huge quantities. Therefore an extra-enterprising computer has demonstrated that the French pastry back each year in the kitchens of leading New York hotels would roof a building covering two and one-half city blocks. And to haul the toilet and laundry soaps used by five hotels would take a procession of half-ton trucks almost three miles long. Truly, they give the figures proving all that. It's true.

The Manhattan Opera House is going to be generous—U. S. Government or no U. S. Government. The people are to be befriended along the line of opera if nothing else. The company first announced that the public need pay no tax for the current production of "The Three Guardsmen;" the theater would pay it. And all the nice pink tickets were printed in words to that effect. But up spoke the U. S. Government and said, "It can't be done." The people must pay their own tax whether or no. "No now the little tickets have all had to be re-printed; and where they once said, 'Two dollars. No tax,' they now have been forced to say, '$1.82; tax 18 cents.'"

The Women's City Club has renewed the fight to gain women admittance to the Law School of Columbia University. A group of women petitioned the faculty several months ago without avail. So the City Club has jumped over the heads of the faculty and carried their plea to the trustees of the university.

The Writer's Club is planting a tree in Washington Square as a memorial to Alan Seeger, the young American poet, killed in action while serving with the Foreign Legion during the world war. Seeger, who is particularly famous for his poem "I have a Rendezvous with Death," was the first American writer to be killed in the war.

Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, bachelor rector of the Church of the Ascension, has been one of the active — almost radical — supporters of free speech in the country. So active in fact — and so radical — that he has received rebukes from his bishop. The other night he suffered from efforts to suppress such freedom as violently as though he had been the tyrant over freedom all of his career. For a ten-day baby was dropped on the rector's doorstep. It seemed to be a baby with a grievance, and there was no one in the bachelor household to look after it but the rector himself. So all night long, in bathrobe and slippers, he walked the floor while the baby wailed. He was still walking when some of his parish came to his rescue in the morning.

HOBBS HIND, GAG AND ROB SCOTTSBURG MERCHANT.

Scottsburg, Ky. — Charles Jones, a merchant, was robbed of about $50 here after two men who had alighted from a passing freight train bound and gagged him. The men previously had entered the store and made a small purchase. They returned and committed the robbery. Some time elapsed before Mr. Jones was discovered.

REMOVE EXCESS TAXES IS PLEA OF DR FESS

Violate Principle of Sound Finance and Stand in the Way of Our Business Progress.

Washington, D. C. — Removal from the taxation laws of all impediments to enterprise, so that business may go forward and prosperity be assured, is urged by Representative Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the National Committee. He says:

"Our supreme need now, as I see it, is to remove the unnecessary handicaps on capital, so that it will seek investment in productive industry rather than hide in unproductive investments. These handicaps, which are distinctly governmental, are (1) our uneconomic and unscientific taxation system adopted because of the exigencies of the war, but two and a half years after war still persists, and (2) the locked-up funds of the banks in the form of the government's short-term certificates, the government's floating debt of nearly three billions of dollars.

"The excess-profits tax, justifiable in time of war, is hardly defensible today. It violates the fundamental principle of all sound taxation in that it admits of varied interpretations and is the basis of universal controversy. The same is true on determining the income tax. The Treasury authorities tell us that cases of dispute reaching as far back as 1917 are still unsettled. Only last week the public was informed that at least one-half billion of back taxes are promised.

"The Treasury in making its estimate of revenue includes vast amounts of money, close to a billion dollars, to come from the cases now in dispute. It is little short of a crime to continue a statute of such wide construction that a taxpayer cannot tell today how much back tax he may be required to pay, dependent upon the findings of a tax official. It has necessitated the employment of expensive accountants and legal advisers and is now the occasion of loss of the government of its experts, who are being sought by managers to make out their tax bills.

"It takes no great amount of acumen to see the deleterious effect upon business enterprise of such a statute. The varied interpretation makes possible a wide range of discrimination of operation. An expert recently presented an example which showed that two businesses with the same amount of income, viz., $150,000, doing business on the same amount of capital one paid $26,860 tax, while the other paid $53,140, a discrimination which is quite common. This is indefensible."

FOUNTS OF AMERICANISM

Washington. — "As an effective agency for the perpetuation and development of a spirit of true patriotism, the Society of Daughters of the American Revolution is unsurpassed," declares the Republican Publicity Association. "In that organization will be found much of the purest of American blood flowing through hearts that are justly thrilled by pride over ancestral achievements. No only in the annual conventions of the National organization but in all the frequent meetings of local chapters, are revived and repeated the countless stories of individual valor, suffering and self sacrifice by means of which a small band of patriots met successfully the assaults of well-trained armies of a despotic avenger, aided by large numbers of colonists who for various reasons remained loyal to the crown. The D. A. R. is the most active gatherer of new historical data covering the Revolutionary period and is doing a valuable work which would otherwise be left undone. In its halls the daughters of the Union and of the Confederacy meet on a common level, all working to promote the welfare of their common country.

"Other patriotic organizations, among them the American Legion, are rendering important service in preaching the doctrines of unadulterated Americanism. Quite likely, for a time, the attention of organizations of veterans of the World War will be centered upon subjects of peculiar interest to themselves, but as time removes these special subjects from constant attention a larger field will be found for their activity in conducting patriotic work along lines of Americanization so much needed in our conglomerate citizenship. All these organizations have a highly useful work to perform and they deserve the encouragement and help of all good citizens."

"It has been fortunate that in the selection of officials who direct the policies and control the management of the leading patriotic societies the members have chosen men and women sound in judgment and deliberate in action, as well as patriotic in purpose. There are always sinister interests which are ready, for partisan or selfish reasons, to make surreptitious use of large organizations such as these. Persons inspired by motives of that kind usually do not work in the open but accomplish their ends by secret creation of prejudice. Undoubtedly efforts of this nature were made in recent political campaigns but it is to the credit of all the well-established patriotic societies that none of them fell victim to the wiles of designing politicians. In the tense nervous strain of the after-war period it is easy to stir up antagonisms by merely pointing the accusing finger and whispering 'Pro-German' or 'Pro-British' or pro-anything-else. As a medium for conducting such an attack, at patriotic society would be a most potent agency and one susceptible of great wrong if improperly used. The Daughters of the American Revolution, the brother organization of similar name, the American Legion and other world war fraternities may well congratulate themselves and their officers that they have been kept free from the injury that would follow injudicious action under the instigation of selfish or partisan interest."

AMERICANISM INCLUDES HEALTH

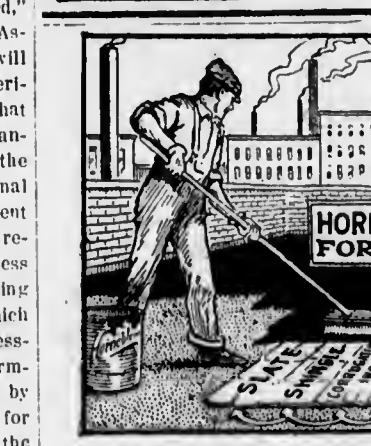

Washington, D. C. — Chairman Simeon D. Fess, of the National Republican Congressional Committee, is anxious that Americanism include the highest physical development of the youth of the country. Formerly president of Antioch College and now chairman of the House Committee on Education, he has introduced a measure providing for cooperation between the Federal and state governments with this end in view.

The purpose and aim of physical education is declared in the meaning of the bill to more fully and thoroughly prepare the boys and girls of the nation for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship.

OUR FAR-FAMED KENTUCKY DERBY

Men and Women of Renown From All Parts of the World Come to Louisville to Witness the Running of This Historic Race.

CABINET MEMBERS AMONG THOSE IN ATTENDANCE THIS YEAR

Few of as native Kentuckians realize, perhaps, what a truly magnificent world event the Kentucky Derby has come to be.

Year by year, it has grown steadily in popularity, until now it tops all other sporting events on the calendar; thereby advertising the state as millions of dollars' worth of space in the public prints could not possibly do, besides attracting periodically hosts of people who spend their money freely and greatly benefitting an industry of vast importance to Kentucky in particular—the breeding of the thoroughbred horse.

The list of personages who cheered the winner of the 1921 Kentucky Derby would stretch out far beyond the limitations of this little article. Suffice to say that it included several members of President Harding's cabinet; distinguished visitors from abroad and financial and commercial giants from all parts of the country; some of the latter the owners of horses that started in the Derby and heavy investors in Kentucky estates, elaborately improved and primarily maintained as breeding establishments.

It is not citizenship through the development of bodily vigor and endurance, muscular strength and skill, bodily and mental poise, and such desirable moral and social qualities as courage, self-control, self-subordination, cooperation under leadership, and disciplined initiative.

To further this purpose the bill provides $10,000,000 for cooperation with the states in the preparation of supervisors and teachers of physical education, including school health supervisors and school nurses, through normal schools and other institutions of higher learning, and for the payment of their salaries.

POLICEMEN DENY THIRTY QUARTS WERE IN MACHINE

Ashland, Ky. — Joseph Clere and M. L. Hinchinson, suspended policemen, published a card in which they deny the accusation of thirty-three quarts of whiskey in their custody disappeared. The officers claim that when they examined a car which had been abandoned after a chase, they found two suit cases containing only seven quarts, which were delivered at headquarters. Their accusers declare there were 30 quarts in the car.

One Dead and Several Wounded in West Virginia Coal Field War
Near Williamson.

Williamson, W. Va., May 13. — Drastic steps will be taken to end the disorders now prevailing along the Tug River in Mingo county between this city and Alburn, 12 miles east of here, where firing from both sides of the river has been going on for several days.

Governor E. F. Morgan already has requested federal assistance in quelling the disturbance and is understood troops now are being held in readiness at Camp Sherman, Ohio, for movement to the scene of the battle.

State police and deputy sheriffs of Mingo county attempted to stop the lawlessness all day yesterday to little avail.

According to reports reaching here only one man has been killed, but several others have been seriously wounded. "Squire Harry Staton was shot down yesterday morning while standing in front of his store at Sprigg.

Two men have been placed under arrest pending investigation of the shooting. Dave Phillips and Calvin McCoy were brought here from Sprigg by deputy sheriffs and placed in jail.
McCoy is one of the original defendants in the Motewan battle trials.

What a Heap of Happiness It Would Bring to Maysville Homes.

Hard to do housework with an aching back.
Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.
If women only knew the cause—
that Backache pains often come from weak kidneys,
"Would save much needless woe."
Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Read what a Maysville citizen says:
Mrs. William Farley, 128 East Second street, says: "Not long ago I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they did me a world of good. I am pleased to recommend them. My back hurt nearly all the time and I couldn't do my washing on account of the misery in my back. I couldn't sleep at night and mornings I could get up feeling all right. I would be dizzy and could see black specks before my eyes. My kidneys didn't act regularly and in other ways showed signs of disorder.
My hands and arms would get numb and cold. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly advertised so I went to Wood & Son's Drug Store and got a box. I began using them and was soon rid of the trouble."

Price 60 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a "kidney remedy"—get Doan's Kidney Pills — the same that Mrs. Farley had. Foster-Milburn Co.,
